Anthony Arger is a Reno native that is pleased to be practicing the legal profession in his hometown after a range of business experience in New York City and in the Northern California wine country. His practice focuses primarily on corporate and commercial law at the federal and state levels, with an acute appreciation for complex business litigation, commercial real estate law, and estate & trust litigation. He also has experience with land use, administrative agencies, water rights, environmental law, and other precious natural resources. He is currently a member of the Western Trial Lawyers Association, and on the Board of Directors for the Washoe County Bar Association. Mr. Arger graduated with a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science from Bates College in 2006, where he also played football. Immediately after completing his undergraduate studies, he worked in finance at Morgan Stanley and Dexia Credit Local in New York City. After nearly three years in Manhattan, he moved to Napa Valley and served as the Director of Sales & Marketing at Arger-Martucci Vineyards. While working at his family's winery, Mr. Arger simultaneously attended graduate school, earning dual Juris Doctorate (JD) and Master of Business Administration (MBA) degrees from the University of San Francisco in 2014. He graduated with honors in his JD concentration on corporate and commercial law, and graduated first in his MBA class. Prior to joining Robertson, Johnson, Miller & Williamson, Mr. Arger served as a judicial law clerk to the Honorable Justice James W. Hardesty of the Nevada Supreme Court.

Mr. Arger has been featured in Nevada Business Magazine as one of Northern Nevada's Best Up and Coming for 2016, 2017, and 2020. Mr. Arger's community involvement includes volunteer legal consultation in several land use and environmental causes. In his personal life, Mr. Arger enjoys spending time with his family and participating in outdoor activities that include skiing, trail running, mountain biking, backpacking, and surfing.
